Ulaanbaatar /MONTSAME/ The Mongolian Ministry of Environment and Green Development has established a cooperation memorandum with the 2030 Water Resources Group.

The document was inked on Tuesday at the end of a sub-meeting themed "Water resources of Mongolia is a developmental accelerator" within the World Economic Forum Strategic Dialogue on the Future of Mongolia.

In accordance with the memorandum, a project will be co-implemented in the water resources. The project's first stage will launch soon to continue for 1-2 years with a 1-1.5 million UDS financing.

The 2030 WRG is an innovative public-private platform for collaboration to mobilize stakeholders from the public and private sector, civil society, centers of academic expertise and financing institutions to engage in fact-based, analytical approaches and coalition building initiatives that help governments catalyze sustainable water sector transformations in support of their economic growth plans.

2030 WRG engages with those governments who invite it to work on a comprehensive water sector reform strategy and then it provides a public-private approach to support them. 2030 WRG acts as an independent entity and offers no political, partisan or national nuance to its advice.
